RICKARD PLANS BIG ARENA IN BROOKLYN

Promoter Selects Site for Amphitheatre Not Far From Ebbets Field.

IS CONVENIENT LOCATION

Residents of Exclusive Neighborhood Enter Protest Against Project.

By CHARLES F. MATHISON.

Tex Rickard's plans for an outdoor arena in which to stage important bouts during the hot weather have apparently crystallized in the selection and lease of a plot of ground in a convenient spot in Brooklyn. According to information received last night from a Brooklyn source, Rickard has obtained a lease of the land on which the Prospect Amusement Company, of which Joe Bigelow is the head, conducts a skating rink in the winter time and tennis courts in the summer.

The tract is a wedge shaped plot 500 feet in length by 300 feet in width, intersected by Flatbush avenue, Lincoln road and the Brighton elevated road. Bigelow's lease of the property expires April 1, and it is understood that Rickard, through brokers, has secured a five years' lease of the property.

It is the purpose of Rickard to erect an open air arena with seats for 50,000 persons, not of the plan of the amphitheatre at Toledo in which Dempsey won the heavyweight title from Willard. As soon as the warm weather brings the boxing season to a close, Rickard proposes to stage contests in the arena in Brooklyn. Not only will he put the Dempsey-Willard and Dempsey-Carpenter contests in the new arena, but he also has arranged to hold events in which the best men in all classes will meet each other.

Will Seat 50,000.

With 50,000 seats to sell to boxing enthusiasts, the promoter is assured of receipts sufficiently large to pay champions their prize and at the same time provide a fair profit for himself and his associates. This, even at the maximum price of $15 for a seat near the ring. Rickard has proven by his bouts in the Garden that well matched bouts, although not of championship class, will draw large crowds provided the seat prices are moderate.

It is therefore the purpose of the promoter to put well matched bouts, including the big open air arena and charge prices ranging from a maximum of $5 for a ringside seat down to $1 for the bleachers. This will give all boxing enthusiasts, especially those of moderate means, a chance to see the best boxers in the game at reasonable cost.

Despite the high prices charged at Toledo, the top figure being $50, the receipts were more than $400,000, although less than $250,000 are anticipated. There is hardly a shadow of doubt that Dempsey and Willard and Dempsey and Carpenter, boxing in which the maximum price of $15, would completely fill an arena seating 50,000, and the promoter would not lose money. As Rickard is staging these bouts will include the boxing season in which the champions meet in future will be on a percentage plan. As a matter of fact, the boxers were to accept a percentage of the receipts in the alleged million dollar match between Dempsey and Cogan, which threw into the discard.

Site Easily Accessible.

In selecting the Lincoln road site Rickard has picked a spot which can easily be reached from every point of the city. The Prospect Park station of the Brighton elevated and the Brighton subway is practically at the center of the tract. The elevated and surface lines from all parts of Greater New York converge there. The site is but a quarter of a mile from Ebbets Field, the home of the Dodgers, and the sports-loving public is well acquainted with the locality.

As soon as the report gained circulation to the effect that Rickard had leased the property, the residents of the exclusive neighborhood made a heated protest. Many of those who live close to the proposed site for the arena voiced strong objections to the staging of boxing bouts so close to their homes, and it is declared that they will start legal proceedings to prevent the consummation of the deal. Rickard, however, is said to hold a bona fide lease, and is inclined to stand on his rights.

The only other open air arena of such size built in this vicinity was the one constructed at Ebbets Field in 1909, in which Terry McGovern won the world's bantam title from Pedlar Palmer, the American stopping the Briton in the first round.

DOBIE PROMISED TO COACH AT W. AND J.
Wanted to Break Contract With Cornell.

Special Dispatch to The New York Herald. WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—That Gilman Dobie tried in every way possible to obtain his release from Cornell to come to Washington and Jefferson became known here to-day following the receipt of news that Dobie had signed a new contract extending his football services at the Ithaca institution until 1924. Dobie, it was learned, conferred with the W. and J. authorities in Washington shortly after Thanksgiving and agreed to terms provided he could obtain his release from the contract which bound him to Cornell for two years. He stated, however, that proceedings could not be started until he believed he could get away.

Later came an offer from Oregon for $5,000. Following this Dobie had another conference with the W. and J. authorities, who agreed to pay him $5,000, which is what he asked, in addition to an assistant whom he was to name. At that time Dobie asked that contracts be mailed him. This was done. It is presumed here that Cornell boosted his salary considerably, as he was getting only $7,000 under the three year contract he signed in 1920.

That W. and J. was rather confident of securing the former Navy coach is indicated by the announcement to-day by Manager R. M. Murphy that he had no man definitely in view, although several men were applicants.

AMATEURS BOX TO-NIGHT.
FIGHTING, Feb. 18.—An interesting amateur boxing contest will be held here to-morrow night between boxers from New York and this city.

Urges That Football Be Run by Plays Instead of by the Watch

BOSTON, Feb. 17.—To run football by plays instead of by the watch will be argued again before the football rules committee at its annual meeting in New York early next month. H. R. Coffin, a graduate of Harvard University and a gridiron enthusiast, who presented the plan last year, will advance it again, with data gained from last season's collegiate games. In announcing his arguments to-day he said R. W. P. Brown, former strategist for Crimson eleven under Head Coach F. D. Haughton, believed the plan would benefit the game.

It is Coffin's contention that the use of timing to regulate periods of play makes it possible for a team that gains the initial advantage to stall thereafter. He points out that in thirty-nine games between Yale and Harvard all but one, the contest of 1915, that was incorrectly timed, have been won by the team that scored first. Stalling would be reduced 50 per cent. by substitution of plays instead of timing to regulate periods, he said.

Bob Martin Faces a Crisis in Title Hunt

If Soldier Defeats Brennan He Will Get Match With Dempsey.

By CHARLES F. MATHISON.

Bob Martin, champion boxer of all the soldier heavyweights, will to-night meet Brennan in a fight which will be a crisis in his title hunt. Evidence that he is a worthy contender for the heavyweight title or else be relegated to a rear position in the army of challengers for Dempsey's crown. If the soldier boy wins he will be accepted as a logical opponent of Dempsey, and even if he makes a good showing against Bill Brennan Martin will be regarded as a fighter who will eventually meet the champion.

Brennan, a veteran, hopes to eliminate Martin from the race for title honors and thus assure himself another meeting with champion who is believed to be exceeding physically.

Brennan's experience may help him to win. All eyes will be focused on Martin, for this is his first appearance in New York. He has fought most of his bouts since he got out of the army in the West and as far East as Boston. In a total of eighty-eight fights, including both amateur and professional contests, Martin has scored seventy-eight knockouts, won four by decisions, boxed three no decision matches, drew one and lost twice. He won the A. E. F. title by beating Billy Kiser in ten rounds.

Paris on April 27, 1919, and won the interallied laurels by knocking out Capt. Gordon Copple of Australia in one round at Paris July 4, 1919.

The spectators will get action in the ten rounds between Kid Norfolk and Pinkie Lewis. The latter has come all the way from California with a chip on his shoulder and a confident he will stop the Black Thunderbolt's victory streak.

Capt. E. V. Chandler, heavyweight champion of the British army and winner in his class in the recent tournament between the representatives of the British and American armies held under the auspices of the International Sporting Club at the Hotel Commodore, will meet William Spengler, heavyweight champion of the New York Police Department and holder of many amateur championships, in the star bout of another tournament arranged by the S. C. for its members, to be held at the Commodore on March 1.

"This will be the last boxing tournament held by the International Sporting Club until our new club building is finished," said Tex O'Rourke, match making director, in making the announcement yesterday. "Naturally, only our own members and their guests will be admitted. The bouts will be so arranged that the last one will be ended at 10:30 P. M. and then a meeting of the club members will be held. This meeting will last for about an hour, during which there will be a promenade in the big corridor for the women guests. Models from the famous dressmaking school will be on hand."

Heavyweight Night at Garden Arena

CHIEF event—K. O. Bill Brennan of Chicago vs. Bob Martin, A. E. F. and interallied heavyweight champion, fifteen rounds to a decision.
Pinkie Lewis of California vs. Kid Norfolk of New York, ten rounds.
"Wild Bill" Reid of California vs. Homer Smith of Kalamazoo, Mich., ten rounds.
Tommy Clary of Philadelphia vs. Mike Arra of New York, six rounds.
Doors open at 7 P. M.; first bout, 8:30; star bout, 10 P. M.

establishments will show the spring styles and after the meeting there will be dancing.

"In addition to the match between Spengler and Chandler there will be a series of contests between the champions of the Eastern Division of the Army and the Navy. Men selected from the Second and Third Army Corps will meet others chosen from the Newport and Hampton Roads naval stations."

"One of the matches arranged will be a return engagement between Sgt. Dan Toomey of Camp Dix, champion lightweight of the army, and Jimmy Brown of the naval base at Hampton Roads."

"This pair put up a slashing battle at our last entertainment. On that occasion it was necessary for them to box extra periods, the judges being unable to decide which was the winner. After the extra session the referee decided in favor of Brown. Not only did Toomey lose for a return match, but we have received numerous requests from our members asking if it were not possible to put this pair on for a return match."

According to an Associated Press dispatch received from Albany yesterday Gov. Miller has no intention of bringing about the repeal of the Walker law. The Governor, it was stated, has become satisfied with the commission's work in regulating the sport and is understood to feel that there is no good reason for abolishing it. There has been a proposal put forward to reorganize the commission and the Racing Commission under a single headed department, which also would control over professional baseball.

In this connection it was recalled that Gov. Miller has repeatedly stated in reply to questions that other matters were more important than sport are commanding his attention.

The tax on boxing shows since the Walker law became effective has netted the State more than $129,000 in taxes.

Johnny Kilbane, featherweight champion, has been offered $25,000 by Jack Callahan, Tulsa, Okla., promoter, to defend his title against Andy Chaney at Tulsa July 4. Eddie Meade, Chaney's manager, said he had closed with Callahan for the bout.

WEFERS IN LESLIE WIN IN HARFORD SHOW

Former Takes 70 Yard Dash and Latter 1,000 Yard Handicap at Newark.

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 17.—Bernie Wefers, Jr., New York A. C. star, and Syd Leslie former Long Island A. C. crack, now running unattached, shared honors at the indoor games of the St. Joseph's Catholic Club in the First Regiment Armory here to-night. Wefers, showing his usual sensational speed, won the 70 yards, while Leslie took the 1,000 yard handicap from scratch.

Wefers kept away from the mark at the crack of the gun and managed to overtake and beat Eddie Bratten of the Long Island A. C. and Joseph Gibson of the Holy Name Club, who had a handicap of sixteen feet. Loren Marchion, the Illinois A. C. star and member of the Olympic team, qualified for the final, but in the final dash got but fourth place.

Leslie defeated Mike Devaney and Jack Sellers by ten yards in the 1,000 yard handicap. Leslie, running in the form he showed some time back, was out in the lead on the backstretch of the final lap. He kept his head running, but once out in front he had no trouble in holding the lead, winning pretty much as he pleased.

Devaney Nips Sellers.

The real fight of the race was for second place. Devaney and Sellers battled for three-quarters of a lap. Devaney tried time and time again to get around Sellers, but each time Jack had enough to hold him off. Devaney, though, made a final bid in the home stretch and just managed to nip Sellers, getting second place by a step.

Willie Kelly of the Knights of St. Anthony defeated Frank Lagay of the N. Y. A. C. and Leo Lloyd of the Paulists in a special yard race styled for the championship of Newark. Kelly won by ten yards without being extended.

Jimmy O'Brien's speed enabled the Flory Council team to win the one mile Knights of Columbus relay race from Star of Bethlehem Council and the Bronx Council quartet. The victory carried with it a handsome trophy donated by Gov. Edwards of New Jersey.

De La Salle won the prep and high school medals in the 100 yard dash, the prep, both of Newark.

The De La Salle team in winning the schoolboy relay race, set a new record, their time for the one and one-quarter miles being 4 minutes 55 seconds. The team was composed of Ralph Voudy, Tom Dwyer, Ed Swinburne and Steve Harvinsky.

The Summaries.

70 Yard Dash, Handicap—Won by Bernie Wefers, Jr., New York A. C. (scratch); E. Joseph Gibson, Holy Name A. C. (16 feet), third. Time, 0:07 3/4.

CHOW IS BEST DOG IN HARFORD SHOW

Lord Cholmondeley II. Takes Special Prize for All Breed Champion.

Special Dispatch to The New York Herald. HARFORD, Conn., Feb. 17.—The second day of the Kiwanis Club's dog show opened with a large attendance, and the judging started with shepherd dogs, handled by Mr. Charles G. Hopton of New York, whose work on other breeds here has given general satisfaction.

The shepherds were one of the most interesting groups in the whole show and aroused great local interest. The winning dog, Likovander Munna, a young imported sable owned by Haden H. Kenna of Princeton, N. J., went through his class and won easily. He also captured special for best of his breed. The reserve dog was Star Challenger, owned by Star Kennels, of North Adams, Mass. This is a large black and tan of fine substance and conformation. The same kennel captured winners' bitches with Star Sensation, a female of good outline and attractive color.

The collies made a representative display. The sensational puppy Starbat Strongheart, owned by Mrs. Florence Hille of Red Bank, N. J., went without a check from puppies to winners. He was shown in good coat, but wanting in flesh. The winning bitch was H. P. J. Ernschaw's Ernschaw Laund Lichen. She won the special for best collie in the show.

Chow a Good Collection.

The chow chows were a good collection. The American bred Choo Koo went through to winners. He is a splendid specimen of the breed and was just beaten for the special by Ch. Lord Cholmondeley II. who looked to-day in prime condition. He subsequently won the special for the best of all breeds. The Adamson Kennels won in bitches with Red Princess.

The Akita terriers had one of the best entries in the show. The winning dog was Dr. A. B. McCullen's Perpet Rocket. He was in rare form, with his matchless head, nice jacket, straight front and clean legs. He afterward won the special by defeating the winning bitch, L. A. Davis's Marionette, also a high specimen.

Boston terriers had a large entry. Mrs. W. E. Porter's Moshu Buddy Bink, the sensational puppy of the Westminster Show last week, went through to winner. While he showed well he was a bit wanting in condition. A cracking good puppy bitch came out in Mrs. C. E. Aul's Mischief. She won her way straight through from puppies to winners and defeated the winning dog in the final round. She is a handsome dark brindle with a nice head, short body, weighing eleven pounds, just a bit toyish, but a high class Boston.

Winning Bull Terrier.

The winning bull terrier was Coolidge Kennel's Coolidge Kennel, a real nice one with a good head, small legs and a short back.

In French bulldogs the winning dog was Mabel Riddle's Haworth Jolt Parakee, a good Frenchman with a flat skull, short face and nice body, and easily won from the other dogs in the class. In bitches the Lonsdale Kennels were to the front fifth Lonsdale Madelon De Victoire, one of the best bred. She won special for best of breed, defeating the winning dog handsily.

While fox terriers were not numerous, they were of good quality.

The winning dog, Coolidge Sabine Ringlander, is a nice type dog and looked up to the challenge. He won in smooth bitches with Coolidge Venice. In wire-haired fox terriers the Evergreen champion, Ridgeaway Dark Boy, scored handsily. A good show of champions was shown by Mrs. J. C. Rohan's dog Bess won. This was a surprise, as the well known Port Fortune Greenbriar Perfect was given credit for the win. The latter showed defective hind leg action, and it militated against her.

In Irish terriers Champion Brentmore Blincker repeated his Westminster victory by winning easily. The winners bitch was Mrs. Robert Sedgewick's well known Thomecraft Red Light.

Guillemot Takes Rest.

Josef Guillemot gave further indications that he was not in the best of condition yesterday when he again failed to report at Columbia for his usual workout. It now appears that the invading Frenchman will go into Saturday's race with only two trial spins in this country, and even then he should be weary. This afternoon he will border the Blue and White board track.

Guillemot spent all day yesterday in his room and said that unless his sprained instep felt greatly improved he would not take a chance on the boards again until the race. The wearer of the green and gold, in his first spins in the saddle, he was sore and he first suffered around the boards and he first suffered around the boards and he first suffered around the boards.
